Telling the Nonfiction Story

6 Tuesdays, 6:30-8:30 p.m.: June 6, 13, 20, 27; July 11, 18 (no class July 4).

Marblehead Inn

Tuition: $240

Whether you're new to creative writing or you've written in the past and would like to jump back in, this class is for you. Together we will explore various types of nonfiction: Memoir, personal essay, exploratory personal writing, and more, supported by in-class writing from prompts and discussion of published examples. For those who wish to go deeper, you'll have the opportunity to share your work created outside of class and receive feedback from your peers.

About the instructor: Julianna Thibodeaux, winner of several Society of Professional Journalists awards and a fiction award from Glimmer Train Stories, is the founder of Marblehead Writers' Workshop. Learn more about her at www.juliannathibodeaux.com.

Here's what previous students had to say:

"I wasn't sure what to expect and just like a good book, it was great!"

"I have always had the stories inside my head. This class gave me a chance to find a way to say them better."

"You are in good hands, no matter how long you have been writing. Julianna was expert in making the group work."

"A healthy environment of supportive, constructive feedback. Julianna is a credentialed, talented writer who encourages everyone to raise their own bar."
